Mrs. John J. Walsh, 26-year-old former SPAR of Quincy Point, was in the South Shore Hospital in South Weymouth today awaiting the birth of her third set of twins in less than two years. Young Wife Found Slain in Billerica

Mrs. Roberta Coy Dunn, 24, of Boston rd., Billerica, who vanished yesterday after leaving her husband a note to pick her up at the home of her mother, was found dead today, apparently murdered, in cellar of a neighbor's home 50 yards away. Her body, clothed and covered with a rug, was found wedged between a wall and an ice box. There were marks on the throat. Associate Medical Examiner Mason D. Bryant announced it as "death by violence, presumably homicide."

Police said the young wife appeared to have been strangled with a cord.

Her body was found by her husband, Frank Dunn, an ex-serviceman employed at the Veterans' Hospital, Bedford, and her brother, Howard Coy, who had been searching for her since 5 o'clock last night.

Dunn told Chief William H. O'Brien that when he returned home from work yesterday afternoon he found a note in which his wife asked him to call her at the nearby home of her mother, Mrs. Sadie Coy.

He went there, discovered she had not appeared, then telephoned police and enlisted his brother-in-law's aid in searching for her. The two men came upon the body shortly before noon. No one was in the house.

DR. MORITZ CALLED

Police were searching for the owners, a couple with two children.

Investigators had found no one this afternoon who had seen Mrs. Dunn after 11 a. m. yesterday, when a neighbor on his way to a bus stop saw her in the street alone.

The body was left where it was found pending the arrival of Dr. Alan Moritz, state pathologist. State Police from the office of Middlesex Dist. Atty. George E. Thompson were also assigned to the case.

Mrs. Dunn lost a baby in childbirth several months ago.

MISSING—All Eastern states have been alerted to seek Mrs. Mildred Wallace, 21, (above), of East Sixth st., South Boston, who disappeared from her home two weeks ago, along with her son Michael, 19 months old.

Bread Boost Due But Pork May Drop

By Associated Press

A general increase in retail bread prices was predicted today by many bakers because of higher ingredient costs, but an Agriculture Department statement forecasts moderate declines in hog and pork prices this fall and winter.

Early trading in the nation's commodities markets showed wheat and oats holding small gains, but most other foods were lower, including butter, which was down as much as 4½ cents at New York.

Commission house buying drove grain futures prices up at the Chicago Board of Trade, but a reaction wiped out most of the gains after wheat had climbed more than four cents a bushel.

Wheat fell to less than two cents above yesterday's close, with December contracts at $2.86 a bushel in mid-morning. Corn dropped as much as two cents, December $2.26¾, but oats held as much as 13-8 above yesterday's close, December $1.14.

1,500,000 Arabs On General Strike

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3 (AP)—An estimated 1,500,000 Arabs closed their shops and left work today in a general strike throughout Palestine protesting proposed partition of the Holy Land. No incident or violence was reported.

The ship Northlands was warped into dock at Haifa with about 2000 Jews who lacked immigration certificates. One held aloft the body of a baby which the Jews asserted died as a result of tear gas used by a British boarding party.

"If you are prepared to believe that, print it," a British Army officer at the pier said.

Red Puppets Battle With GIs in Korea

By MARION HUGHES

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 3 (INS)—A U. S. Army border patrol was disclosed today to have engaged in a shooting battle with Russian-controlled North Korean police supported by unidentified machine gunners firing from the Soviet side of the occupational boundary.

Participating American soldiers said they were not sure whether any Russian troops were involved in the clash, which took place Sept. 23, but told of machine gunfire directed against them.

It was the first gun battle involving American troops along the occupational border since U. S. and Russian forces moved into South and North Korea, respectively, more than two years ago.

No Americans were killed or wounded in the encounter, which was touched off by an attack on the part of north Korean riflemen who swept across the line into American-held territory.

Two south Koreans were wounded as intermittent exchanges of fire occurred for two hours after the battle.

Whether any of the participants from north Korea were killed or wounded was not stated in today's Seoul announcement made by the Army's Intelligence Corps.

Five American soldiers constituted the border patrol which had been sent out to guard an area just south of the demarcation line between the northern and southern occupational zones.

The patrol was dispatched because South Korean farmers previously had been driven off by Russian-controlled North Korean police while the farmers were attempting to harvest rice.

The five American soldiers said seven North Korean riflemen suddenly circled toward their left flank and opened fire on the U. S. patrol.

At the same time, bursts of machine gun fire were directed against the Americans from the Soviet side of the occupational boundary.

The five-man American patrol promptly returned the fire.

A 20-man unit of reinforcements was rushed to the scene, but when it arrived the firing had ceased.

The patrol withdrew, and South Korean police moved into the rice paddies to guard the harvesting farmers.

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of American forces occupying South Korea, dispatched a protest to the Soviet commander in South Korea against the violation of the occupational border.

Small Fines Punish Air-Crate Frauleins

FRANKFURT, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two German girls, foiled in efforts to sneak into the United States in boxes, were fined nominally today by a U. S. military government court.

Doris von Knoblock, 21 and blonde, was fined $10 for attempting to leave Germany without proper authorization. She was discovered in an air freight box addressed to Rolph Berndt of New York. Pilots said the discovery saved her life because she would have frozen in the unheated plane compartment high above the Atlantic.

Sigrid Kraft, also blonde and 21, packed her friend in the box and planned to follow her similarly if Doris arrived safe. She was fined $5 as an accomplice. The Kraft girl is engaged to John Walters of Laurinburg, N. C., a former U. S. soldier at Darmstadt, Germany. Both Berndt and Walters expressed chagrin in the United tSates at their fiancees' action.

Army investigators said they contemplated no prosecution against Pvt. Robert Siedentope of Colorado Springs, Col., who delivered the crated Miss Knoblock to the airport. They said evidence indicated he did not know the girl was inside.

Five-foot four-inch Doris von Knobloch, was found wedged into a box 29 inches long, 21 inches high and 21 inches wide, in which she had spent the night.

Proof of Love, Says Girl's N. Y. Fiance

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—A young German refugee in New York was delighted and shocked today after he heard his intended bride tried to fly to him from Frankfurt disguised as a crate of old clothes.

Rolf Berndt declared:

"It proves Gitty loves me."

"Gitty" is the girl, Doris von Knobloch, whom he first met while a concentration camp prisoner of the Nazis. She was found hiding in a small air freight box at Frankfurt.

Berndt, an electrician by trade and now a $50-a-week Broadway truck driver, then was told Gitty probably would have been frozen to death if she had succeeded in getting into the baggage compartment of a high flying plane.

He shivered, and said:

"I never dreamed she would try anything like that. In fact, she must love me very much.

"I don't like this smuggling idea. The authorities only catch up with you in the end and then it's all spoiled.

"I've dreamed and hoped of doing it the correct way. I've been saving my pennies ye-

Couple Await 3d Set Of Twins in 2 Years

Three sets of twins in less than two years. A 26-year-old former SPAR was expected to achieve this triumph today at the South Shore Hospital, South Weymouth, setting a new maternity record in the history of American medicine by giving birth to three sets in one year and 51 weeks. The expectant third-time mother is Mrs. John J. Walsh of Avalon ave., Quincy Point, the former Alice Levangie of East Weymouth. The expectant —and admittedly nervous— father is a 28-year-old Navy veteran now employed as a clerk in the Veterans' Administration here.

The obstetrician is Dr. John Hopkins of Hingham, who delivered Mrs. Walsh's second set of twins at the same hospital Oct. 16, 1946.

Walsh, who was doing his pacing close to the telephone, said:

"We learned two months ago we were going to have twins again. X-rays showed it. We are grateful. We only have five rooms, but we're grateful for those, too. All we could find after the first twins were born was a furnished room."

PARENTS NAVY VETERANS

Twins have occurred in Walsh's ancestral line and in that of his wife. Her grandmother, the late Mrs. Matilda Taylor of Dover, N. H., had boy and girl twins.

Walsh, a Boston College graduate in 1940, served as a pharmacist's mate, second class, at a naval air station in Maryland. His wife was a practical nurse before their marriage in February, 1944. They served virtually side by side at the air station, she as a pharmacist's mate, third class. They had known each other long before going into the services.

Their first twins were born at the Navy Dispensary, Washington, Oct. 10, 1945—John Joseph, Jr. who weighed 6 pounds and 9 ounces, and William Edward, 6 pounds and 1 ounce. They were flown here when only four weeks old.

A year and six days later, Oct. 16, 1946, Mrs. Walsh gave birth at the South Shore Hospital to Michael, 6 pounds, 1 ounce and Maureen, 5 pounds, 14 ounces.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM

While their mother was awaiting delivery of the third set today, twins John and William were at the home of her mother, Mrs. William E. Levangie, Myrtle st., East Weymouth.

Walsh's mother, Mrs. John J. Walsh, Coolidge st., Brookline, was taking care of twins, Michael and Maureen.

The three brothers and their sister have thrived since birth.

In the past, when the Walshes have gone for a walk, the father has pushed a double stroller, the mother a double carriage.

Walsh said he hadn't decided how to solve the transportation problem posed by the third set of twins.

Lynn Woman's Return Ends Wide Search

Weak and ill, Miss Ruth Chaffee, 33, of Humphrey st., Swampscott, arrived home at dawn today to halt a search which extended from Lynn to Lansing, Mich.—launched when she vanishhed from downtown Lynn 48 hours ago.

The missing telephone worker and Sunday school teacher called from Boston earlier to ask help from her sister, Mrs. John Andrews. The latter had been keeping an all-night vigil at the telephone with her mother, Mrs. Elsie Chaffee, a telephone operator at Lynn Hospital.

"Please come and take me home quick," the missing girl pleaded. "I think I'm going to collapse."

Mrs. Andrews and her husband sped to a bus terminal, where Miss Chaffee awaited them. She told a story of wanderings that had carried her as far as Rochester, N. Y.

This is the story told by the missing woman to her sister:

"I don't remember anything until I suddenly seemed to come to and saw a policeman. I asked him where I was and if he would help me. He told me I was in Rochester, but I hadn't the slightest recollection of how I got there.

"I asked him how I could get to Boston and he showed me where the bus terminal was. That's all I know. There isn't anything else I can remember."

State Lacks Power to Halt Evictions, Barnes Decides

Atty. Gen. Barnes in an advisory opinion requested by Gov. Bradford, informed the chief executive today he had no power to halt evisions of tenants from their homes in Massachusetts. With district courts jammed with hundreds of eviction petitions filed by landlords, the Governor said he had summoned a special session of the executive council for Monday to discuss the problem.

He said he would submit an order at the meeting, asking for a ruling on the matter from the supreme judicial court.

Under the existing law, the courts can grant tenants four months grace before evicttions may become effective.

STATE LACKS POWER

For that reason, the Governor said, he did not think it necessary to summon a special session of the Legislature, which convenes Jan. 5.

In his request for an opinion from Barnes the Governor had asked whether he had powers under the Constitution or state laws to issue regulations authorizing the courts to grant tenants more time before evictions became effective.

"I am not aware of any provision of our Constitution or laws which give the Governor authority to make such regulations as you refer to," Barnes replied in his opinion.

He added that the Constitution gave the Legislature the power only to determine the "manner and mode of providing shelter in time of emergency."

"His opinion says that I have not the power to do what I wish to do," Bradford declared, as he announced his plan to seek a further opinion from the State's high court.

"I want to leave no stone unturned to see what can be done at the State level," he added.

Meanwhile more than a half-dozen bills have been filed for action by the next Legislature, all of them seeking to halt evictions.

In addition, Rep. Gabriel Piemonte, of the North End, has prepared a petition for a special session of the Legislature to take up the problem but has delayed filing it pending the opinion which Barnes handed to the governor today.

WORKS WAY DOWN AS FAKE ARMY MAN

DETROIT, Oct. 3 (AP)—A self-imposed reduction in "rank" failed to deter the government from again prosecuting 52-year-old William T. Fleming on a charge of impersonating a serviceman.

Harry T. O'Connor, FBI head in Detroit, said Fleming drew a year's probation in 1943 for illegally wearing an Army captain's uniform and that the same thing happened in Chicago in 1944.

By 1945, O'Connor went on, Fleming had reduced himself to second lieutenant, but was sentenced to serve six months, nevertheless.

He pleaded guilty again Thursday before Federal Judge Theodore Levin, who deferred sentencing.

This time he was a first sergeant.

Layman Urges Holy Name Program On Diocesan Scale

Importance of a definite program and organization on a diocesan scale to make the Holy Name Society successful was stressed today by Fred A. Muth of Milwaukee at a business session of the organization's convention at Boston Opera House.

"The individual Holy Name member may accomplish self-sanctification," he said, "but to make an overall impression we need a unified program with all participating. We should start on a diocesan basis and work downward to the parish level.

"Any organization which is without a program is a mockery to its members. The Holy Name Society has a program and we know from Abp. Cushing's fine address last night how important it is to translate that program into action."

The Archbishop, in a stinging rebuke of bigotry, had lashed out at two Protestant clergymen for spreading what he said was a doctrine that "there is a fundamental antagonism between Catholicism and Americanism."

Muth said recreational and athletic programs might well be fitted into any Holy Name Society program but that they should not be allowed to run away with the main objective of the organization.

Most Rev. Leo Binz, coadjutor bishop of Winonah, Minn., pointed out the difficulties of organization on a diocesan basis where tremendous distances are involved, as in his diocese. Rev. Joseph J. Hein, director of the Milwaukee Holy Name Society, said strong societies were needed in each parish to make a diocesan program successful.

Business sessions, a Hotel Statler luncheon and a 3 p. m. tea for wives, daughters and sisters of delegates at the League of Catholic Women Clubhouse, occupied the day.

Highlight of the program, however, was to be the Candlelight Holy Hour, set for 8:30 p. m. at Braves Field, with 60,000 men expected to attend. Abp. Cushing will be principal speaker.

The Archbishop's rebuke of bigotry last night was his second attack within two months on anti-Catholic groups. He did not identify any clergymen by name in his talk.

They were identified by an official Society spokesman as Rev. Dr. Guy Emery Shipler of New York, Episcopal clergyman and editor of The Churchman, and Rev. Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the New York Methodist diocese.

"THIS GOOD NEIGHBOR

The Archbishop did not name the clergyman in his address to the 7000 delegates at a general meeting at Boston Arena, nor did he identify another Protestant clergman he called "this good neighbor."

MOST REV. LEO BINZ
. Addresses Holy Name Group .
Record-American Photo by Harry Simard

The same source said this third cleric was Rev. Douglas Horton, chairman of the American Committee of the World Council of Churches and husband of Mildred McAfee Horton, president of Wellesley College.

Declaring he spoke for 25,000,000 Catholics, Archbishop Cushing charged:

"While old-fashioned bigotry against Catholic belief is long since dead, there is a new bigotry which takes a surprising form.

"MENACE TO FREEDOM"

"It is being said with increasing insistency that while Catholics are undoubtedly loyal enough to their faith, they do not mean what other Americans mean when they talk of freedom and that their religous principles concerning freedom make them a menace to the freedom of others in any community where they become a power.

"For example, the editor of an anti-Catholic religious magazine, one of the largest publications of his denomination, has called for a non-Catholic bloc to protect American institutions from the danger of Catholics in places of trust.

"Again, a leader in another denomination, perhaps the largest religious group in America, constantly returns in his public addresses to the theme of the alleged lack of sympathy between Catholic thought and Democratic thought.

"The situation which they are helping to bring to pass in the United States is already so disturbing that another non-Catholic leader has recently circularized his brothers in the ministry, asking them to be on their guard against becoming partisans of the renewed anti-Catholicism which this good neighbor fears may sweep America."

Gen. Lee Gets Clean Bill, Ike Approves

By GEORGE MOISE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (INS)—Gen. Eisenhower approved today the inspector general's report exonerating Lt.-Gen. John C. H. Lee of dictatorship accusations and commended Lee for superior performance of duty in the Mediterranean theater.

Eisenhower endorsed the findings of Maj.-Gen Ira T. Wyche, Army inspector-general, who asserted that charges against Lee made in a series of newspaper articles were based on "half-facts, rumors and untruths."

Assailing the author of the articles, Robert Ruark, Scripps-Howard columnist, Wyche asserted that Ruark accepted lies and rumors as facts and wove them into articles implying that Lee was responsible for brutal and degrading treatment of enlisted men and widespread abuses of the privileges of rank.

In New York Ruark said:

"I have seen the Army's report of its investigation of my charges against Lt. Gen. Lee and I intend to study the report thoroughly before replying. In my own good time I will have the necessary answers to the Army's findings in this case."

Eisenhower, in forwarding Wyche's report to Sec. Army Royall, declared:

"Gen. Lee has performed a service to his country which has won the approbation of his associates, both civilian and military."

Royall, concurring with the report, pointed out that he also had recently commended Lee and the entire Mediterranean command.

Eisenhower said Wyche's report indicated only three deficiencies in the command. He said steps to correct these had been ordered. Among these was an order to officers to show more consideration for enlisted chauffeurs sometimes kept waiting "unconscionably long hours" while their superiors attend social events.

Wyche reported:

"Actually, the personnel of Gen. Lee's theater are adequately housed, clothed and fed, and their conduct and discipline have elicited the most favorable comment from all well-informed persons who have come in contact with them."

The inspector general admitted that Lee and his staff "took advantage of certain perquisites and privileges customarily afforded officers of his and their rank." But he added:

"The exercise of these perquisites and privileges does not fairly indicate that they are living in a lavish or luxuriant manner, or that they have abused the privileges of their rank."

Lee recently returned to the United States to await retirement, which he requested last February. He said he planned to devote the remainder of his life to church work.

The inspector-general reported that in the relatively few cases in which abuses were found action was taken to correct them.

The columnist's charges that men in the disciplinary training center at Pisa were subjected to "sweat boxes" and other cruel punishment were countered, Wyche said, by sworn statements of prisoners denying such practices were used.

Lee, who was chief supply officer in the European theater during World War II, is a 1909 graduate of West Point. Wyche was graduated from West Point in 1911.

Houseboat Lands MIT Man in Dock

A GI student at MIT learned today that a home on the river will land you in the dock—police dock, that it.

Floyd Steinmetz, Jr., unable to find living quarters on shore, built himself a houseboat. Today he was charged with violating Rule 5 of the Metropolitan District Commission—mooring a houseboat on the Charles river without permission. He was summonsed to appear in Waltham District Court Monday.

Metropolitan Police said Steinmetz, who gave his address as Gardner rd., Brookline, had been warned to move his boat or dismantle the living quarters aboard it. They stated that if they allowed one houseboat on the river, hundreds of others would follow suit and the river would be polluted.

Hub War Nurse's Body Among 5600 To Sail for U.S.

The body of Lt. Frances Y. Slanger of Roxbury, Army nurse killed in action in Belgium, will be among the 5600 hero American dead of World War II who will sail from Antwerp tomorrow. It will be the first transport filled with caskets of war dead to sail for the U. S.

LT. FRANCES Y. SLANGER
Heroine's Body Coming Home

All the caskets to be carried on the first trip, according to an AP dispatch from Paris, have been placed aboard the Army transport Joseph V. Connolly, with the exception of the Lt. Slanger casket.

That casket, picked at random, stands in the square at Antwerp guarded by four soldiers. It, too, will be hoisted aboard the transport to make the trip across the Atlantic escorted by the U. S. Destroyer Vesole.

Lt. Slanger who went overseas in Jan., 1944, was killed Oct. 21, 1944, while serving just behind the front lines near Liege. A shell burst in her tent while she was attached to the 45th Field Hospital.

FAMILY WAITS WORD

Mrs. Sally Sidman, Homestead st., Roxbury, a sister of the nurse, said today the family had not yet been formally notified by the War Department that Lt. Slanger's body is being returned.

"We have made tentative funeral arrangements, but must wait for definite word before anything can be decided on as final," Mrs. Sidman said.

The services will be taken over by the Lt. Frances Y. Slanger Post, 313, Jewish War Veterans, and will be held at the Stanetsky Funeral Chapel, Washington st., Dorchester. Burial will be at the Jewish Cemetery in West Roxbury.

Following the death of Lt. Slanger, a drive was opened to raise $2,500,000 for the purpose of endowing a national home for nurses at Washington. The home, according to Maj.-Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Army surgeon-general, will be named in honor of the Roxbury nurse.

PRESIDENT'S ORDER

As the transport Connolly prepared to sail, President Truman ordered the flag be flown at half staff at all military installations, vessels in port and on all public buildings Oct. 10 and Oct. 26.

The Presidential order stated this action is a token of the nation's participation in memorial services to be held in New York and San Francisco "for the gallant and heroic American soldiers, sailors, Marines and others who gave their lives to their country."

On Oct. 10 approximately 3000 bodies will arive at the West Coast port from the Pacific battlefields aboard the Honda Knot. On Oct. 25, the Connolly is scheduled to arrive in New York.

U. S. May Buy Grain Direct From Farms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Anderson today disclosed that the Agriculture Department is considering purchases of grain direct from farmers.

This by-passing of the grain exchanges would be aimed to curb the inflationary upswing of wheat and corn prices and minimize the speculation resulting from the European aid program.

Anderson told of this possible step after a cabinet meeting which was reported to have been concerned largely with possible effects of the European aid program on prices.

Overell Jurors Set For Judge's Charge

By JAMES PADGITT

SANTA ANA, Cal., Oct. 3 (INS)—The last of the closing arguments at the Overell yacht murder trial continued today with the state's final plea due to be completed around noon. The jury will get the case between 3 and 4 p. m. after receiving instructions that will require two hours to deliver.

Yesterday, Special Prosecutor Eugene Williams accused the defense of an "ulterior consideration" in its repeated reference to politics.

Asserting that politics was not an issue in the case, he declared:

"The question at issue is whether these defendants are guilty of murder."

Just before Williams stepped before the jury, S. B. Kaufman, chief counsel for George R. (Bud) Gollum, made the final acquittal plea for Gollum and Beulah Louise Overell.

He asserted that the young defendants were innocent of the state's charge that they killed the girl's parents aboard the Overell yacht March 15.

Kaufman declared:

"Louise's heart is broken. She is all alone. The state wants to punish her even more by sending her to prison and Bud to the gas chamber."

40,000 Yanks Held by Reds, U.S. Powerless

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Between 40,000 and 50,000 men and women who claim American citizenship are in Poland, but few dare to talk to American diplomats to plead their cases for repatriation, and American consulates or diplomatic personnel can't see them.

How many other thousands there are in Estonia, Lithuania, Latvia, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and other formerly free countries, now in the orbit of the Red Fascism of Russia, cannot even be estimated.

One specific case is that of American-born Eleanora Schultz, formerly of Worcester, Mass., her husband, Valdemaras Carneckis, and their five children.

She was born in Worcester Oct. 8, 1898, and baptized at St. Casimir's Church, Worcester. A brother, John Schulz, lives in Providence, R. I., and another brother, Joseph Schultz, also born in Worcester, lives in that city.

When Eleanora Schultz was 24 she left the U. S. for Lithuania, and there married Carneckis, who was a rising young light in the Lithuanian Foreign Ministry. Their children were born in London, Lithuania and Rome.

In 1939, the family returned to Kaunas, Lithuania.

The war clouds over Europe frightened the former Eleanora Schultz. She applied for a non-quota visa for her husband and thir five children to come to America. It was ordered granted. But before she could pick up the vital papers from the American legation at Kaunas, Russia assumed control of Lithuania and the Kaunas legation staff and papers moved to Moscow.

Three Worcester Women Held by Soviet

The plight of the former Eleanora Schultz of Worcester and her five children was brought to the attention of the public last July by Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge, in an address before the 29th state convention of the American Legion in Symphony Hall.

Coolidge did not disclose the identity of the woman he referred to in his speech, but later Sen. Saltonstall and the State Dept. officials revealed her name

Two other Worcester women reported held prisoners by the Soviets are Mrs. Stanley Kairukstis, the former Anna Migauskas, graduate of Worcester Classical High School, and Mrs. Isabel Gustainis, formerly Isabel Avetian.

Highlights of Rededication Week

Brig. Gen. William H. Harrison, adjutant-general of the Massachusetts National Guard, was named by Mayor Hynes today to serve as chief marshal of the patriotic procession Sunday, Oct. 12, the high point of Boston's observance of Rededication Week on the parade grounds of Boston Common.

The now famous Freedom Train, touring the country with invaluable historic documents, will arrive at North Station at noon Oct. 11 and will be announced by the ringing of the fire and church bells throughout the city. The train will be open for inspection until 10 p. m. and will then be moved to the South Station, where it will again be open for the visiting public all day Sunday.

FAMOUS COLOR GUARD

Among more than 250 organizations which have already signified their intention of participating in the gala ceremonies scheduled for the week is the famous Continental Color Guard of the Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The Color Guard was the first organization in this state to be given permission by the Legislature to carry firearms

Each Guard member is descended from a Revolutionary War soldier or marine, and their equipment dates back to those now hallowed days.

The sabre carried by the present Guard commander, Raymond F. Bowley, Hyde Park, was wielded by Lt. Isaac Collier at the Battle of Bunker Hill. Bowley will also carry a spontoon, a half-pike formerly part of the equipment of British Infantry subalterns and all commissioned officers of the early U. S. Army and Militia.

NOTABLES ASSIST

Joining in the festivities will be leaders of all faiths—Abp. Cushing; Dr. Norman B. Nash, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in Massachusetts; and Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz, president of the Rabbinical Society of Boston.

The Buddies' Club on Boston Common, presented to the city by the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, has been designated as headquarters for Rededication Week.

At the Common exercises, Mayor Hynes will serve as master of ceremonies.

WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Other events of the week are: Oct. 7, luncheon of the Boston Advertising Club in the Hotel Statler; Oct. 8, meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Boston Chamber of Commerce, both at the Copley Plaza Hotel; Oct. 9, rally of federal, state, city and county employes at the Parkman Bandstand; a women's rally of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs at 8 p. m. in the Copley-Plaza Hotel at which Vera M. Dean, research director of the Foreign Policy Ass'n, will speak; Oct. 10, a meeting of the Industrial Relations Council of Metropolitan Boston in the Hotel Bradford with Philip Murray, president of the CIO, as chief speaker.

PARADE ROSTER

A partial list of organizations participating in the patriotic procession follows:

Knights of Columbus, Elks, Greater Boston Negro-Trade Ass'n, Chinese Benefit Ass'n, New England District Kiwanis, Boy Scouts, Mayflower Descendants, Knights of Pythias, CIO, Hyde Park Order of Eagles;

Girl Scouts, St. Cyprian's Men, M. W. Alpha Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M., Amos Lodge B'nai B'rith, 196th District Rotary Int., Women's Service Clubs, Loyal Order of Moose, Pan-American Society of N. E., U. E. R. M. W. of America, South End House, Emmanuel League, N. E. Shoe & Leather Ass'n, Simmons College, Boston Branch N. A. A. C. P., Mass. Bankers' Ass'n, Mega Psi Phi Fraternity, German Educ. Wilhelmina's Health Fails, To Quit Rule

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Netherlands government announced today that Queen Wilhelmina would temporarily lay down her royal power in the near future for reasons of health and Crown Princess Juliana would act as Princess Regent.

The announcement said legislation would be introduced shortly in Parliament to permit transfer of the royal power.

The bulletin emphasized, however, that while the 67-year-old queen was not in the best of health, there was no reason for alarm over her condition.

Army Bars Reds At Ordnance Show

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Army said today Russian military attaches were not invited to an ordnance demonstration at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds yesterday because American attaches have been barred from similar showings in Russia.

Military attaches of other foreign powers attended the demonstration along with more than 2500 United States industrialists, Army, Navy and Air Forces officers and newspapermen.

The absence of Soviet attaches was the first indication the Army is retaliating for discrimination against its attaches in Moscow.

Priest Given 6 Years in Slav Prison

BELGRADE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Fr. Stephano Cek, Roman Catholic parish priest, was sentenced yesterday to six years at forced labor for "instigating bloodshed" in Lanische on Aug. 24, when one priest was slain and another wounded.

Msgr. Jakok Ukmar, a Vatican prelate, the priest who was wounded, was sentenced to one month at forced labor, but under the law he was deemed to have served this sentence while in prison awaiting trial.

(The Rev. Fr. Milo Bulesich was slain and Msgr. Ukmar was wounded by a mob at Lanische, near Pisino, in Yugoslav-occupied Venezia Giulia, Aug. 24. Yugoslav officials said the mob attacks on the priests resulted from a ruling by certain priests that persons classed as "enemies of the church" would be barred from acting as godfathers at confirmationo ceremonies.)

Twelve other defendants were sentenced to serve three to 10 months.

But He May Not Need an Overcoat

John R. Murphy, 55, of Concord st., South End, learned in municipal court today that he may not need an overcoat this winter.

Murphy was found guilty Wednesday of stealing an $85 overcoat from a downtown department store. He appealed a six-month jail term and was freed in bail of $1000.

Today, he was found guilty of larceny, a day later, of a $75 overcoat from another downtown department store. Judge Elijah Adlow sentenced him to a year. Murphy appealed.

"Make his bail $5000," Judge Adlow instructed the court clerk. "We've got to protect those overcoats."

Sailors Seabags Now Modernized

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — The Navy is modernizing the sailor's seabag for the age of jet power and the atom bomb.

The seabag, a combination clothes hamper, storeroom and collapsible suitcase, has been an essential part of a sailor's life since iron men slung their hammocks aboard wooden ships.

Down the years, it has become a little old-fashioned.

Today's sailor no longer carries his bed on his back wherever he goes because all ships have folding steel bunks, the Navy explained. Seabags were designed for tying to that bed roll.

Sailors, who long have cursed naval tradition as they scrubbed their canvas seabags snow white, will be glad to know that one of the new styles is olive drab and the other three royal blues.

Slugger Drops $100 While Fleeing

A youthful holdup man, who slugged Benjamin Wiseman, 57, Cambridge fruit peddler in the hallway of a house in Lee st., Cambridge, and robbed him of $100 today fled in such haste that he dropped the money.

The youth struck Wiseman on the head with a hammer as he passed through the first floor hallway after making a delivery. As he fished through the victim's pockets and found the money, Wiseman's outcries attracted residents of the house. The youth, in his haste to escape, dropped both the money and his hammer.

Wiseman, who was treated at Cambridge City Hospital for a scalp cut and possible concussion, described his assailant as about 18, hatless and wearing a light jacket and brown trousers.

Doctor Lays Blame for Polio On Unripe Fruits, Other Foods

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—A Syracuse pediatrician, Dr. Ralph R. Scobey, who firmly believes cyanide poisoning causes infantile paralysis, has put his finger on unripe fruit, among other things, as a source of the dread disease.

Dr. Scobey's beliefs are published in a series of articles in the Archives of Pediatrics, a monthly publication of children's diseases. He makes a double-barreled claim:

1—It never has been proved that the "virus" of poliomyelitis can cause that disease in human beings.

2—It has been proved that polio can be caused by cyanide poisoning.

OTHER DISEASES

His idea of how infantile paralysis is caused departs radically from recognized polio research. He says cyanide not only can produce paralysis in human beings and animals but that it results in a chemical imbalance in the body that may have lasting results. The functions of the thyroid gland and the liver are disturbed, Dr. Scobey says.

He adds that polio is only one of a group of diseases caused by cyanide poisoning. He also lists goiter and paralytic shellfish disease. He says it is possible Rheumatic fever also results from cyanide poisoning.

A major part of Dr. Scobey's work has been tracing the sources of cyanide that can affect humans. He says it is present in practically all foods, in forage and in polluted water.

ACID BLAMED

He says cabbage, cauliflower, cereal and forage grasses, peaches, cherries, linseed, and even milk contain cyanide. The source of the cyanide in plants, he says, is cyanogenic glucosides. These are found in relatively large amounts when plants are unripened.

There is little danger of polio, he says, unless these cyanogenic glucosides are acted upon by an enzyme contained in the plant or by an acid.

Dr. Scobey considers iodine, vitamin C and calcium in foods to be protective against cyanide. He says he has employed successfully these food elements in treatment of infantile paralysis.

Imperiled Airliner Reaches Gander Field

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A transworld airliner with 47 aboard sent out a distress message today while en route from Shannon, Eire, to Gander, Nfld., but landed safely at the latter airport six hours later. The pilot dispatched the SOS after discovering an air bubble in the fuel lines.

Cuba to Free 700 in Plot Against Trujillo

HAVANA, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Cuban Supreme Tribunal was expected to release today approximately 700 members of an expeditionary force captured aboard two ships off the Cuban coast before they could participate in an abortive plot to overthrow the Dominican government of President Rafael Trujillo.

Hunger Among U S Poor Cited by Reds

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Soviet-licensed newspaper Vorwaerts, commenting on appeals to the American people to save on food, said today:

"Even in rich America, in the midst of plenty, there are millions of persons who hunger because they do not have enough money to buy sufficient food. One could not ask an additional sacrifice from them."

Revere Out-of-Town Taxi Drive Nabs 146

The Revere police drive against out-of-town taxi drivers in connection with overcharging riders, overloading cabs and soliciting riders has resulted in 146 arrests and 143 convictions since regulations were tightened July 1, was disclosed today.

Most of the arrested drivers were operating Boston cabs and from Suffolk Downs. In addition, more than 50 Revere drivers have lost their hackney licenses for similar violations.

Church Group Raps Marriage Of Clergymen to Divorcees

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A group of 12 clergymen of the Episcopal church issued a statement today which said the marriage of two Episcopal clergymen to divorced women was "a shock to the whole church" and asked bishops for a clarifying interpretation of two canons governing marriage.

The statement was released here by Rev. Leslie Lang, rector of St. Peter's Church in New York city. Clergymeen from nine states signed it.

Rev. Lang said the marriages referred to were those of Rev. Benedict Henry Hanson of Baltimore to Elizabeth Donner Winsor, first wife of Elliott Roosevelt; and of Very Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall, former dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in Detroit, to Mrs. Isabelle W. Morrill.

The statement said the bishops of Lexington and Michigan, who sanctioned the marriages in their respective dioceses, had "divorced the canons from their necessary relation to the doctrine and tradition of the church and based their action upon a legalistic interpretation of the canons alone."

Uniform Auto Insurance Aim of Solons

Demands of Greater Boston motorists for a uniform compulsory automobile insurance rate instead of the present zoning system were met today with promises the issue would be introduced into the next session of the Legislature.

Sen. Chester A. Dolan of Jamaica Plain, Democratic leader of the Upper Hoouse, and Speaker Frederick B. Willis of the House of Representatives said they would lead the fight for a single rate applicable to all automobile owners in Massachusetts.

They predicted a rought fight to push the proposal through over the opposition of senators and representatives from areas paying low premiums, who form the majority of both legislative houses.

Highest rates in the State are paid by car owners in Chelsea, with Revere and Boston following close behind and most cities in the Metropolitan area paying rates far above the average. Lowest rates come in the smaller communities far from the Boston area.

Sen. Dolan labelled the public hearing on the rates, to be held Oct. 15 at the Public Works Bldg., 100 Nashua st., a "farce." He added:

"The hearing is required by law, but actually it means nothing. Once the rates are established, a hearing on them is simply a matter of going through the motions."

However, civic and business leaders in many cities and towns with high rates are planning a spirited protest at the hearing.

Cemetery Ass'n Denies War Dead Commercialism

Members of the Greater Boston Cemetery Ass'n. denied charges of commercialism by William F. Hallisey, state commander of the VFW, in connection with burial of war dead returned from overseas.

After a special meeting, members defended their stand about caskets. They stated that government shipping cases are made of plywood only three-eights of an inch thick and in no way can be used as permanent caskets.

GOVERNOR'S ELEVATOR OUT

Gov. Bradford today rode a small automatic elevator usually used by night workers at the State House after state inspectors ordered the regular elevator shut down for repairs.

LAUNDRY PROWLER

SOMERVILLE — Police took into custody an almost completely unclad prowler in a cleaning shop today.

Patrolman William Downey, who discovered the prowler while searching the shop with four other officers, said the man, wearing only a short smoking jacket, told him he broke into the shop and undressed with the intention of replacing his clothing with recently cleaned garments.

Reds Again Blast U.S. Over Greece

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Russia renewed her attacks on the United States today with a charge by Dmitri Manuilsky, foreign minister of the Soviet Ukraine, that the American government was trying to throw a smoke-screen to cover "intervention" in Greece.

The Ukrainian made his charges before the political committee of UN's general assembly in a 53-minute speech, kept to the line laid down yesterday by Albania and Bulgaria—two of Russia's Balkan satellites. They said the United States and Britain were primarily responsible for the Balkan troubles, and not Greece's northern neighbors.

Drive On Congress To Split Tax Urged

Richard L. Bowditch, president of the New England Council, called today for support of a Council proposal urging Congress to remove the present discrimination against noncommunity property states in federal income tax matters.

Letters were sent to 2100 Council members and more than 500 New England industrial, commercial and agricultural associations.

Bowditch wrote:

"The directors of the New England Council feel that the better way to remove the discrimination, which has existed since 1913, is to amend the federal income tax law. It is further believed that with the Treasury surplus, and with the now favorable attitude of the Treasury, there is a very good prospect of securing remedial action at the next session of Congress. It is estimated that the change required would cost the Treasury about $800,000,000 in revenue at present rates. It is for that reason that we feel that such legislation should precede or be part of a general tax reduction bill."

2 VIENNA DP'S SENTENCED

VIENNA, Oct. 3 (INS)—Two displaced persons—Kahane Fischer and Leo Arment—were sentenced today by an American military court at Linz to 10 years imprisonment for attacking U. S. and Austrian police during a riot.

'Meanest Thief' Granted Mercy

Found guilty of larceny in two counts, John Kittredge, 45, of Stoughton, formerly of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, was branded "the meanest sort of thief" by Municipal Judge Elijah Adlow today Kittredge was sentenced to six months in jail, suspended on condition he make restitution.

Victims of the thefts were Mrs. Beatrice Packard of St. Botolph st. and her husband, Albion. She testified Kittredge worked for her as a rent collector and vanished in March, 1942, with $27.50 in rent money. He came back in September, 1946, but instead of pressing the complaint against him, Mrs. Packard gave Kittredge his job back.

That same month, she said, he walked off with her husband's new suitcase containing clothing worth $132.50 and $30 in cash. Police caught up with him in Stoughton this week.

AUTOMOBILE VICTIM DIES

Frederick B. Duncan, 69, died at Norwood Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE AMERICAN PRESS is about to celebrate Newspaper Week, which comes annually at this time of the year. There are many special weeks during the year, most of which are to advertise a commodity or to support a cause and most of them pass without much attention. They do not really matter.

Newspaper week, this year is different. It highlights, among the most important and critical problems that face the human race, freedom of communications, freedom of the transmission of facts and ideas, freedom to criticize, to doubt, to praise.

The American newspaper is unfortunately becoming a unique institution in the Western World. There was a time when all newspapers nearly everywhere were more or less free to function as their publishers and editors chose.

In most countries, newspapers, magazines, the radio have become organs of government and party propaganda. The truth is not in them. They repeat what government orders them to repeat. They do not check the facts; they do not publish differences of opinion or of presentation; they do not scrutinize or criticize those who govern.

They have ceased to be publications for the people; they are organs of deceits and infamy.

OUR PRESS remains free. Private ownership, even in cities where there is only one newspaper, avoids forcing a particular view or a particular recounting of a situation.

In fact, it would be technically impossible for a newspaper publisher to keep from his readers facts of situations which do not suit him. Three great news agencies, remote and uncontrolled by local publishers, send through their copy speedily and objectively.

Even were these news agencies to unite to deceive, they would fail. The large metropolitan dailies and weeklies maintain large staffs of correspondents within the United States and abroad and they usually do more than supplement the news services; they seek for a keener scrutiny, a sharper criticism than the news agencies care to provide. And weekly publications supplement these with independent reporting.

BESIDES, there is a huge corps of Washington correspondents, each ambitious to make that one great scoop that will bring fame and reputation. And there are the columnists.

Some build large personal followings. Some risk their reputations for probity by sharpness of language. But taken all together, they are avenues for the presentation of differences; they are vehicles for bringing to the surface what might otherwise be obscure. They ferret out the hidden.

THE CUMULATIVE EFFECT of all this activity is that the American people are better served by its press than other peoples and although some newspapers may be slanted propagandistically and some writers may be serving special causes, altogether the press produces a fullness of presentation, a completeness of information, an inevitable uncovering of the truth. That is what freedom of the press means and requires.

There are those who fail to realize that the yardstick of freedom is the differences among a people. They seek to suppress differences. They desire unity, oneness, a marshalling of all forces in a single direction. That is totalitarianism and means an end to liberty.

LIBERTY OF THE PRESS does not relate to the conduct of one newspaper or one writer; it does relate to non-interference by [illegible]

It would be as wrong to suppress the "Daily Worker" as the "Wall Street Journal."

Liberty risks differences; liberty risks freedom of expression. Liberty is unafraid. That is why the American press is so important to our people and to a dark and frightened world.

A CRIMINAL CONFESSES

"I CAN only hope that no one has seen me coming here," said the Man from Providence, entering our office with the air of a fugitive and locking the door behind him.

"What have you done?" said we, aware that the worst things can happen in the best families.

"I may be hanged," gulped the Man from Providence.

"You what!" said we, secretly praying that our visitor had not brought any murderous propensities with him.

"I may be hanged," the Man from Providence reiterated.

We should have known that the humanitarians on Beacon Hill had long since outlawed the gallows and substituted the electric chair on the pretense that the latter was milder, although none of the gentle do-gooders expected to have any personal experience with either instrument and could always be relied upon to shun such spectacles as took place on a certain hardly memorable occasion at Charlestown during the Saltonstall administration; but a person is not liable to remember these things when he is confronted with a self-confessed criminal.

Our reverie was cut short by the agitated voice of the Man from Providence.

"I didn't think I was breaking the law," he sobbed; "and, of course, ignorance is no defense in a progressive State like Massachusetts where everybody is supposed to be familiar with all the contents of the statute books. I did it with my eyes and ears open, and now I'm ready to face the consequences."

"Did what?" said we, considerably relieved by the knowledge that our visitor was resigned to his fate, however grim it might be.

"I CROSSED the Rhode Island line and ventured into the sacrosanct confines of Massachusetts," confessed the Man from Providence. "Believe you me, I never suspected that the penalty for such rashness was death, but here it is in black and white."

We took the proferred newspaper clipping and read that Senator Chester A. Dolan of Jamaica Plain, a good friend of ours, was going to ask the next session of the Legislature to exert itself sufficiently to repeal a 320-year-old law banishing Rhode Islanders and threatening them with the hangman's noose if they so much as put a foot on Bay State soil.

"Did you ever hear anything like it?" demanded the Man from Providence. "You'd expect that sort of thing in Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' or the memoirs of Peter the Great, or maybe from Henry the Eighth; but never could you imagine yourself reading the like of it here in our own New England, where Governors, Chambers of Commerce and all the rest meet regularly and say the nicest things to each other."

"If you believe that, you deserve to be hanged," said we, filing away the press clipping for future reference.

"The law books are crammed and cluttered with prohibitions and injunctions against neighbor States. Maine will imprison anybody who exports a kilowatt of her electricity to Massachusetts.

Remember, midst your wooing,
Love has bliss, but love has rueing.
Smiles of others may make him fickle,
Tears for other charms may trickle.
Love it comes, and love it tarries,
Just as fate or fancy carries.
Love's a fire that needs renewal
Of fresh beauty for its fuel.

IT IS MY INTENTION to corner George Jean Nathan, dean of drama critics, at the Stork Club or Connolly's and Donnelly's on Third ave. and have words with him. I differ strongly on some statements made in one of his recent essays in which he discussed plays with sports backgrounds. He spoke of Henry Blossom's great play, "Checkers," as being "moderately amusing." I thought it was highly amusing. The dean dismisses "Three Men on a Horse" with the faint praise that it "had its humorous moments." I ask: In what part wasn't it humorous? The night I saw it I spent the evening chuckling and cutting loose with what is known as "belly laughs." I agree with the dean there haven't been many good plays with sport backgrounds, but I don't want to see "Checkers" and "Three Men on a Horse" kicked around. Incidentally, George missed commenting on one great sports background play. That was "Sporting Life," the Drury Lane melodrama. Never a dull moment in that one. Not for me anyhow.

PASSING BY—Anita Loos, the pocket size brunette who wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." That was in 1925. Long before that Anita wrote Mary Pickford's first hit film, a two reeler titled, "The New York Hat." Miss Loos, who is four feet, ten inches tall and weighs 87 pounds, is still going strong. Her most recent effort was the hit play, "Happy Birthday," written for Helen Hayes . . . Joe Schneider, specialist in baby photography. Joe is said to be very clever at quieting crying babies and putting them in a genial contented mood. He should write a book titled, "A Hundred Ways to Keep a Baby Quiet." A lot of young mothers would like to have something like that.

Anita Loos

ASKING: Query from client. Q.—What do you think of the claim of Dr. John D. Ellis that football and baseball are bad sports for participation in by boys under 19? A.—I haven't spent much time thinking of the good doctor's claim. I started playing baseball when eight years old and football when 11 and I feel all right. I know hundreds of men who can say the same.

WESTERNERS: It is interesting to note that Harry Carey, the brilliant screen actor who seemed so typical of the old West, was born in the Borough of the Bronx, New York city. And that Bill Hart, the two-gun man, who seemed even more Western than Carey, was born in Newburgh, N. Y. Still, when you think it over it isn't so strange. Many of the immortal figures in Western history were born in the East. Take Billy the Kid for example. He was born in Brooklyn.

INTERESTING FACES—The Artists League of America has selected the country's "ten most interesting faces." One of the faces chosen was that of Joe DiMaggio. I'll have to take a good look at Joe's face the next time I see him. Incidentally, the most interesting faces I ever encountered were in Florence, Italy. Especially the feminine faces. I got the idea that some of these women were descendants of the models of the many great artists who lived and worked in Florence in the Middle Ages.

PLEASE NOTE—Many dentists keep telling me transplanting teeth is not practical. That it is dangerous. And so on. At the same time I am hearing from many people who have transplanted teeth and say the operation has been a success and they feel fine. For example, Gladys M. Corkery of Brooklyn says she had six teeth knocked out in an accident. The teeth were rescued and replanted by a Dr. Ginnelly of New York. Mrs. Corkery, who is in the best of health, had the use of these replanted teeth for 20 years. She is a very co-operative subscriber and is prepared to prove her statements to any dental expert expressing disbelief.

ASIDES—That song, "Fifteen Dollars in My Inside Pocket," was popularized by the first Pat Rooney, father of the Pat Rooney who was teamed so many years in vaudeville with Marion Bent. The first Pat Rooney was before my time. So I never heard him render the ditty aforementioned . . . Have heard of a four generation Chicago family which has never had a funeral. The mother is 67, the father 78. They have seven children, 17 grandchildren, 13 greatgrandchildren all living and in the best of health.

FAIR ENOUGH

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—Allen Smiley of Los Angeles, known as a producer and director of motion pictures, was present in his own apartment on May 25, 1944, when the late Bugsy Siegel, the gangster, was arrested there on a charge of bookmaking. Siegel was acquitted.

Westbrook Pegler

George Raft was among the company and he testified as a character witness for Siegel. He said: "I have known Mr. Siegel for many years. We have been friends for a long time. We went up to the apartment (Smiley's) and were sitting there discussing things about going to New York."

IN AUGUST, 1944, Smiley was indicted with Tommy Dorsey, the band leader known as "the sentimental gentleman of swing," and Pat Dane, a movie and night club personality of note, who was then Mrs. Dorsey.

They were charged with amputating a portion of the nose of Jon Hall, an actor, at a party given by the Dorseys in their home.

Dorsey was the first person in the amusement industry to perceive profitable talents in Frank Sinatra. He hired him as a singer for his band.

Presently, Sinatra became aware of unsuspected possibilities in himself but, like Primo Carnera, the Italian prize fighter, and Max Schmeling, the German, he unwisely "cut" himself into so many shares that he seemed destined to work much of his future for others unless he broke loose.

Sinatra assigned or sold 33 1-3 per cent of himself to Dorsey, 10 per cent to the General Amusement Corp., a booking and management company, and 10 per cent to Leonard K. Vannerson, Dorsey's manager.

Later, Sinatra refused to distribute these shares of his earnings and settled with Dorsey and Vannerman for a small cash payment. Meanwhile, female pickets, ostensibly bobby-sox fans of Sinatra, had picketed Dorsey's shows.

ON JUNE 20 of this year, Bugsy Siegel was shot and killed by two bullets fired through the window of a home in Beverly Hills, Cal., which had been rented by Virginia Hill. Miss Hill was a friend of Siegel and of Joe Adonis. The source of Virginia Hill's income is not publicly known, although it appears to have been large.

Several pundits of the gambling house and underworld beat of the radio and journalism dropped knowing intimations that she was a "divorcee" and an "heiress," as though that would explain all.

SIEGEL WAS by now heavily interested in the hotel and gambling property at Las Vegas, Nev., known as the Flamingo. It is an elaborate plant.

The original promoter, Billy Wilkerson, a Hollywood publisher and restaurant promoter, said the total investment was $5,600,000 last winter. Wilkerson said Siegel had muscled in, bringing two other new partners with him.

Siegel was cordially received in that element of financially successful performers, promoters and parasites of the night club, radio and movie picture trades who constitute the "society" of the amusement industry.

Allen Smiley also was received without question. He has been known for years in Hollywood business, social and underworld affairs, which often are identical or indistinguishable, as Allen Smiley and by no other name. His identity has never been questioned in this set.

IN THE RECORDS of the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization of the Department of Justice, Allen Smiley is listed as Aaron Smehof, alias Abraham Smickoff. The present address is given as Sunset Plaza Drive, Hollywood. The address at the time of the arrest of Siegel for bookmaking was on Sunset Boulevard.

The same record states that Smiley, Smehoff or Smickoff was born in Beliza, Russia, on Jan. 10, 1967; was brought to Canada about January, 1914, by his parents; that his father, first name Hyman, became a naturalized citizen of Canada and under Canadian law was able to naturalize his several children, including Aaron or Abraham; that this person entered the United States by ferry at Detroit in 1922, at the age of 15, and, that, in September 1926 he was confined in the Preston School of Industry at Ione, Cal., upon his conviction of robbery, first degree, in San Francisco.

The Bureau records indicate that Smiley was arrested in 1940 charged with robbery and this is verified by the Los Angeles police records. The case was dismissed. He was fined $200 for contempt in Los Angeles.

There are records of other arrests on charges of shooting crap, peddling without a license and violation of the State liquor laws.

Smiley has a registered number with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the California State and Los Angeles city police.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (INS)—The deal is practically set for Hal Wallis to borrow Jennifer Jones for "Sorry—Wrong Number," and of course I mean borrow her from David Selznick. Of all the roles Jennifer has played, this would be the most harrowing, as you know, if you have ever heard Agnes Moorehead's classic performance on the air.

Jennifer Jones

It's about a woman who accidentally overhears a telephone conversation between two men who are plotting her murder and one of the plotters is her husband!

I bet one factor that will influence David to say "yes" is that Anatole Litvak directs. Yes, this is Jennifer's second movie for Hal, the first being "Love Letters," which won her an Academy Award nomination—but not the Oscar.

JOHN PAYNE was very honest and sincere when he telephoned me he had made a mistake in turning down "Sitting Pretty"—but he still felt he should ask for his release from 20th.

I'm sorry about the trouble, but, believe me, the studios are taking no nonsense from ANY player these days. Times are too precarious.

In place of Payne, Robert Young has been signed for the picture and I must say, of all the untemperamental actors in the world, it is my Beverly Hills neighbor, Mr. Young. Even when he and MGM parted company it was with handshakes all around.

THERE'S A VERY nice story back of the signing of 19-year-old Helen Wescott to play Lady Diana in Errol Flynn's "Don Juan." Helen is the daughter of Gordon Wescott, who played romantic heavies for Warners for years and was killed in 1935 in an accident on the polo field.

She herself, as a child, went into "The Drunkard" and played in it for nine years. She also was one of the children in "Midsummer Night's Dream." She always thought if she made a movie it would be at Warners where her father was so loved.

CARY GRANT, dining with a very pretty girl, stopped by my table to say he was stepping out because he starts work on Monday in "Mr. Blandings Builds a Dream House," and would be busy for the next few months.

I hadn't seen Cary since he came back from England where he went to confer with Alex Korda. I told him I heard he was wonderful as the angel in "The Bishop's Wife."

"Glad to hear it," he laughed, "because I play a devil in my Korda movie. Can't be good all the time."

"Well, you're good in the movies all the time," I found myself saying, "and your timing in comedy is superb."

And that wasn't merely being "charming"—I meant every word.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Margo has been ordered to rest and take treatment to save her voice, which she has completely lost. She worked in "Angel Street" in Mexico City after she injured her vocal chords, and last week underwent an operation. Following that she had a hemorrhage and suddenly lost her voice.

She had just signed to do a floor show at Cafe Society in New York, at a fabulous price. However, everyone is hopeful that with rest her voice will be restored.

Margo, as you know, is married to Eddie Albert, the well-known actor.

Louisa Horton, the youthful star of "Voice of the Turtle," who, I told you, came here for a test for "All My Sons," gets the job, and she left tonight for Santa Rosa on location. She not only was signed for one picture, but has been put under a long-term contract by Universal-International.

Chester Erskine, who brought her here, will not let one bit of the Hollywood so-called brand of glamor be added to her. He has ordered make-up men and hairdressers to leave her eyebrows, hairline and lips as they are. She's not a beauty, but beauties are a dime a dozen, and this girl has what is more important—talent

Van Johnson told me when I was on the set of "State of the Union" that he really has something to shoot at now, Frank Capra, the director, has won several Oscars, Spencer Tracy, two, and Claudette Colbert one.

"I'm in good company," he said, as he sat down in his dressing room. Van is very happy over his "State of the Union" job.

He says it's the first time he's ever been loaned and feels it is the greatest chance in his life. He did a rave about how beautiful Claudette looks. I just missed her, and Spence, too. But I did have a chance to talk to Ben Cooper, the man in charge of making it rain. It's certainly a complicated system. It's not everybody who meets a rain-maker face to face.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at Random: June Haver is looking at houses in Balboa and may buy one there. She goes to Washington in October, and when she comes back she hopes to bring the baby she wants to adopt.

June Haver

Vicki James, three-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Betty Grable and Harry James, started nursery school—can you believe it?

Joe Brown, wealthy hotel man, whose finger was smashed in a garage door last week, may have to have it amputated.

I just can't stand it if they put the self-styled genius, Orson Welles, in "Gus, the Great." But then Orson thinks as much of himself as Gus did.

Henry Morgan made a typical crack when someone asked him how he liked Hollywood. He said, "My reaction is startling—I like it."

The newest surprise duet in town is Corinne Calvay, the French throbber, and Steve Crane. They were at the Fox and Hounds for dinner.

The beautiful blonde with Walter Kane at Ciro's was Gay Pohling, who has been signed by Columbia.

If Charlie Laughton will drop by the Cafe Jay, where he often has dinner, he can pick up a play which Lenore Coffee and her husband, William Cowan, left there for him. They want him for the lead and have tried to find him all over town.

Mrs. Ruth Davis Palmer, Bette's mother, is back from a European tour and has rented a house near her daughter at Laguna Beach. Mrs. Palmer, who separated from her husband some months ago, left for Europe the day after her granddaughter was born.

Bob Stack was down at the harbor unloading his new French imported car. He wanted to get it out before the strike started, and he did.

Saw Tay Garnett having dinner with Lucie and Jim McGuiness. Tay tells me he starts his 20th year as a director when he starts "Connecticut Yankee" with Bing Crosby.

Margaret Whiting and Jean Sablon a twosome at the Tallyho.

Milton Pickman and Nan Wynn, who were on the verge of marriage and then split up, dining at Coronet.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

LONG DISTANCE phones tingled in New York as musicians from Val Ernie's band called their wives from Cleveland after the Mounds Country Club robbery. The armed thieves got away with $500,000 from the gaming rooms—not $200,000 as originally reported. WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Maybe you wondered about the big rush in getting James V. Forrestal sworn in as Secretary of Defense under the new national security setup. Instead of waiting until he got back here from Rio, President Truman radioed an order from the U. S. S. Missouri that it be done at once.

The President's only explanation was that the hurry-up had been dictated by the "international situation."

I WILL TELL YOU this just as it happened, so you can draw your own conclusions. I had been doing a series of pieces about the four top men of the new national military establishment, as the unification setup is called—Navy Sec. John L. Sullivan, Army Sec. Kenneth C. Royall, Air Force Sec. W. Stuart Symington, and the boss of them all, Defense Sec. Forrestal.

In the course of gathering this material I was sitting with one of Washington's highest officials—I will not tell you who—quietly discussing the possibilities for unification, when he got to his feet and began striding up and down the room. Finally he came to an abrupt halt in front of me and said:

"Listen, this situation is a lot tougher than most Americans dream. Let me tell you this: We have just learned that Russia has most of the top stuff—and I mean the really top stuff!"

This was as far as I could get him to go beyond a terse; "and you know what I mean!" We returned to discussing unification.

THIS MAN, noted for his cold level-headedness, then got on the subject of Henry Wallace. You will recall that Wallace was the only prominent American to rail against the President for the sudden swearing-in of Forrestal.

Wallace told a rally of the Progressive Citizens of America—and I may say, parenthetically, that I am beginning to distrust all organizations which call themselves "Progressive," "Liberal," "Anti-Fascist," etc.—that the people of the United States have a right to an explanation of the "international emergency" which activated the President. Added F. D. R.'s Secretary of Commerce.

"If there is no emergency this action rates as the very lowest method of breeding fear. It is not technique which will melt Russian stubbornness. It will certainly not endear us to the peace-loving people anywhere in the world."

Which peace-loving people? One of the standard pieces of Communist patter is to refer to themselves as "peace-loving" and all critics as "warmongers."

IT SHOULD BE no secret that the men entrusted with the security of this country are looking upon Henry Wallace less as a misguided idealist and more and more as a character who would bear watching.

Many of his actions and utterances are too pat to be patternless.

I was sitting with one of the four military leaders, getting the material for this series, when State Sec. Marshall telephoned. This is the end of the conversation I heard:

"Yes, George, I appreciate all that. I just don't want it to be fodder for 'Comrade' Wallace."

The four interviews also produced a little light froth. In talking to Navy Sec. Sullivan I said that, of course, he would sit on the Navy side at the Army-Navy games and Army Sec. Royall would sit on the Army side, but where would Air Sec. Symington and Defense Sec. Forrestal sit?

"Stu Symington," winked Mr. Sullivan, "can sit with me if he likes—on the winning side!"

Mr. Symington said inasmuch as he expected to get many of his pilots from West Point he would sit on the Army side. I told Defense Secretary Forrestal that inasmuch as he was supposed to be impartial boss over all services, I supposed he would sit right in the middle of the field and let the players run around him.

"Doesn't sound practical," he grinned. "I guess I'll sit the first half on one side and the second half on the other."

Overseas Yanks Believe War Coming

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, International News Service

TRIESTE, Oct. 3 (INS)—American soldiers and sailors stationed in the Trieste danger zone of political struggle between East and West generally believe the world is drifting in the direction of another conflict.

Nearly all of those with whom I talked, however, were convinced war can be avoided if the U. S. remains strong and maintains a firm policy in its relations with Russia.

The situation still is tense in this area as a result of the Yugoslav army's recent attempt to bluff its way past American and British soldiers guarding the new frontier of the Trieste Free State.

RUSSIA AFRAID

I talked with some of the 88th Division Blue Devils who were holding the line on the night of Sept. 15-16 when the Yugoslav forces threatened to shoot their way into the city of Trieste.

Having witnessed the belligerent attitude of the Yugoslav officers and watched the troops deploy as if for combat, these GI's find it difficult to believe there is no danger of war.

"Many of us sure thought it was coming that night," Sgt. Merle Torgison of Montana told me.

"As long as the Russkys' puppets act like that, there is going to be danger of war.

"However, I personally do not think we are going to have a big fight with the Russians.

"I was in France, Germany and Czechoslovakia during the war. I believe all those people would be on our side if we had war with Russia. So would the Japs and the Chinese.

"Russia knows this. That is why she is afraid of us. As long as she remains so, we won't have war."

Hunt Club Party

By BETTY ALDEN

OWNERS OF THE PICTURESQUE farms in the Dover, Medfield, Sherborn countryside who invite members of the Norfolk Hunt Club to ride to hounds over their fields and meadows, will be entertained Sunday at the club's annual landowners' luncheon. It will be an al fresco party on the steeplechase course between the morning and afternoon events in the Norfolk Hunt Club hunter trials.

Riding to hounds over the colorful autumn landscape is a favorite sport in the fall and the forthcoming hunter trials the first big event of the season for amateur horsemen. Exhibitors are coming from several other hunt clubs to compete for the many cups and put on a colorful show for all lovers of the sport of kings.

Nathaniel T. Clark

Darby Almy, MFH of the Dedham Hunt, will ride together with Nina Bohlen of Dedham who won the champion hunter trophy last year. Dedham's hunt team will be comprised of three young horsewomen, Sally and Barbara Rice and Carol Hall. Mrs. Henry S. Hall, Jr., and Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske will be among the riders representing Millwood Hunt Club. Four riders from Myopia Hunt Club will be Mrs. Richard C. Storey, Katharine Winthrop, George C. Clement and Frederick Winthrop, MFH of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel T. Clark, Mrs. Sherwin Badger, Charles H. Wood and George Lewis, Jr., will ride for Norfolk and one of the outstanding horsemen from Groton will be William McGuckin, MFH. Some of the landowners to be entertained are Mr. and Mrs. Gelston T. King, owners of Tween Waters, one of the lovely estates on the Charles River at Sherborn, and their neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saltonstall of Charlescote Farm, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, the Augustin Parkers, Jr., and Samuel Elliots.

PATRICIA WELD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Minot Weld, is making her debut this evening at a dance her parents are giving at their summer home in Beverly Farms. Some 200 young people are gathering in the flower filled house to toast the pretty debutante and dance to Marshard's music. Rosamond MacDougall of Quebec is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Weld for the party. Patricia, a provisional member of the Junior League, graduated from Chatham Hall in Virginia and is attending Katharine Gibbs School.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN JOSEPH NOLAN (Helen Spiers) of Malden announce the birth of their second child, first daughter, Louise Mary, Sept. 28, at Richardson House. The maternal grandfather is Thomas H. Spiers, Malden.

EAGER TO KEEP abreast of the news many Bostonians have already signed up for this winter's current events talks by Miss Harriet Eunice Avery which begin Nov. 7 at the Copley Plaza under the auspices of the Bryn Mawr Club of Boston.

President Orders War Dead Honor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Truman ordered the flag to be flown at half staff at military installations, on public vessels in port and on public buildings Oct. 10 and 26 in honor of the return of World War II dead from overseas.

His order said this will be a token of the nation's participation in memorial services in San Francisco and New York "for the gallant and heroic American soldiers, sailors, Marines and others who gave their lives to their country in World War II."

The dates were set to fit the arrival of the first two ships bearing bodies of war dead. Approximately 3000 are to be brought to San Francisco, Oct. 10, aboard the Honda Knot. Some 6300 are due in New York, Oct. 25, aboard the Joseph V. Connolly.

Matrons Claimed Best Drivers

Most women—mothers in particular—make better automobile drivers than men, according to Mrs. Lulu Lovely of Pittsfield, a grandmother of 60 and teacher of novices since 1925.

Mrs. Lovely says she has coached 2000 student drivers in 22 years, of whom about 1500 were women.

She gives her views on the woman driver question in an article for next Sunday's American Weekly, the magazine distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Stunning Beauty Cream

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

NOW WE'VE SEEN EVERYTHING . . . a fabulous, new gold-plated jar of cosmetic and beautifying cream. But don't get us wrong . . . we like it! It is stunning.

A few more such eye-catching cosmetic jars and maybe more women would be impelled and feel the urge to delve into their contents.

This little golden morn cream is one of those nifty facial feedings which the expensively fastidious gals know all about and are thoroughly familiar with . . . their face and their pocketbook. But don't lose heart. Don't get price-conscious . . . and stop reading. Read on! Like many other things . . . price has been revamped according to size which makes this beauty collector's item choice but available.

While the two regular sizes of this gold-plated jar of cream are priced much higher . . . for the month of October only, an introductory size may be had at only $2.75 . . . so, you, too, can be luxuriously indulgent of your face-is-your-fortune complexion. For now we are beginning to think of gracious living and a glamorous social whirl . . . of makeup as an exhilarating experience and no longer carelessly tossed off.

This unusually-formulated cream will greatly aid you in relieving a dry skin condition and help to coax the complexion back to one of dewy softness. Stroke a thin film of this cream blend of pure, delicate oils over the face and throat and leave it on for about 10 minutes. Blot off the excess with tissues . . . and allow the residue film to remain on overnight for an extra-softening treatment.

For the name of this golden morn in the gold-plated jar, October-special cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THERE'S GOLD in this Mary Goodfellow-designed gold coat of mail hood . . . one of this designer's special group of hooded hats for evening wear. And there's gold inside and outside of a beautifying aid presented in a fabulous, new gold-plated jar and containing a unique formula of delicate and pure oils in cream form. For a golden outlook from morning to night . . . and for a soft, lustrous skin that's both the hood and the cosmetic.

Fashion Group of Boston

"HEADLINES and Hemlines," two vital issues this fall, will be discussed and illustrated in supplementary style show by Mrs. Maud G. Moody, millinery fashion editor of Women's Wear Daily, guest-speaker at a luncheon-meeting of the Fashion Group of Boston, at the Hotel Somerset Wednesday.

Known in the international modish world as "the dean of millinery authorities," Mrs. Moody will bring with her some Paris hats, the latest to arrive in this country, as well as the best and newest from the New York and Boston collections, and outline their new silhouette in detail as right and perfect for the new season clothes.

Miss Harriet Wilinsky, director of the Boston Fashion Group, will preside. Miss Ruth Mugglebee, Record-American Beauty and Fashion Editor, and program chairman of the group, will introduce Mrs. Moody.

The public is invited; tickets are available at the Functions Office of the Hotel Somerset.

Capes Favored For Fall

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

CAPES THAT you wear instead of a coat and that are made to take winter's rough weather are fashion's pets and pride this season. Their lines are more conservative than the wide-sweeping flare of the evening cape. They lie as close to the neck and shoulders as a well-cut dress.

This economy of flare continues down the front and sides of the street cape, giving it a look of sleekness and a feeling of citified elegance. But the cape comes into its own with the circular look of its back view. Here freedom reigns. The fabric may get its swing from gussets at the shoulder line or from a dropped, circular yoke. Whatever the means, back movement is fluid and unconfined.

The red velour cape designed by Trigere and sketched today is collarless and close-fitting over the shoulders, bodice and arms. Its double row of buttons is joined with twisted loops. Buttons trim the arm openings. The cape is three-quarter length.

Economy in Planning Ahead for Meals

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

FROM THE STANDPOINT of economy, planning ahead is a good idea. It means foreseeing uses for leftovers and anticipating the utilization of every speck of food bought. When buying the Sunday dinner, for instance, thought should be given to the ways in which the roast may be used up during the week without becoming monotonous. Leftover meat can always give repeat performances as meat pies, salads, casserole dishes, creamed dishes, or sliced cold with hot vegetables and gravy.

Even leftover bones may be used for soup.

Menus profit also by being built around a variety of seasonable foods.

These are some of the ways for thrifty homemakers to beat the high cost of living. Other ways have been suggested by the famous Good Housekeeping Institute in the menus below. These menus were designed for three meals of leisurely, good eating on Sunday. They are economical and consideration has been given generally to the more plentiful foods.

POT ROAST OF VEAL SHOULDER

3 to 4 lb. boned, rolled pot roast of veal shoulder
3 tbsp. fat or salad oil
2 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 sliced, peeled, medium onion
1 tbsp. water

Brown meat well on all sides in hot fat in Dutch oven or heavy kettle, over medium heat. This may take 20 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper during browning period. Add onion and water; cover quickly and tightly. Simmer slowly over low heat until tender—about 1½ to 2 hours. Turn several times as it cooks, to insure even doneness. If the cover does not fit tightly, you may have to add a tablespoonful or so of water during the cooking period. When meat is tender, remove to hot platter; keep warm while making gravy. Spoon some of gravy over pot roast on platter, and pass the rest, or slice pot roast in kitchen, and serve in gravy. Serves a family of 4 for 2 meals.

DELICIOUS CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
2½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
¾ cup bottled milk, or
6 tbsp. evaporated milk, and
6 tbsp. water
1 tsp. vanilla flavoring

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together 3 times. Work shortening with spoon until fluffy and creamy; then add sugar gradually while continuing to work with a spoon until light. Add egg and beat very thoroughly with a spoon. Add dry ingredients alternately in thirds with the milk, to which vanilla has been added, beating with spoon after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased and floured cake pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for 50 minutes, or until done. Let stand in pan 10 minutes before serving.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup top milk
2 tbsp. white corn syrup
2 tbsp. butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients in saucepan. Heat to boiling, while stirring, then boil to 220 deg. F. (If you do not have a candy thermometer, boil mixture 3 minutes). Makes 6 servings.

Donlevy Fights Voiding Of His Divorce Decree

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3 (AP) — Actor Brian Donlevy filed a petition in state District Court of Appeal seeking to set aside a Superior Court decision voiding his interlocutory divorce decree. Donlevy's action contends Superior Judge Allen W. Ashburn was without legal authority in voiding the decree more than six months after the divorce judgment against his wife, former singer Marjorie Lane, was entered last Feb. 11.

Congress Plans Of 4 Assailed

Protest of a Democratic candidate for the congressional seat of the late Charles L. Gifford against four state legislators running for the office will be heard Monday by the State Ballot Law Commission, it was announced today.

William McAuliffe of New Bedford, who ran against Gifford three times for Congress unsuccessfully, complained to State Sec. Frederic W. Cook that "the Constitution prohibits elected officers from using their public trust to promote their own private gains."

Legislators seeking the Republican nomination are Senate President Donald W. Nicholson of Wareham and Rep. Nathaniel Tilden of Scituate, and those after the Democratic nomination are Sen. Edward C. Peirce and Rep. Jacinto F. Diniz, both of New Bedford. Primaries will be held Oct. 28 and a special election Nov. 18.

SPAGHETTI-MEAT BALLS WITH ITALIAN SAUCE

½ tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon thyme
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1 bay leaf
1 whole clove garlic
1 package spaghetti
¼ cup fat
1 large onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1, 3 cup chopped celery
1 can (No. 1) tomato paste
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 cup water
2 teaspoons salt

Pan fry shortening, onion, minced garlic and celery. Add tomato paste, tomatoes, water, salt, sugar, pepper, chili powder, thyme, parsley, bay leaf and whole clove garlic. Simmer for 45 minutes. Remove whole clove of garlic. Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water, drain and keep warm to serve with hot meat balls and sauce.

FOR MEAT BALLS:
Blend together 1 lb. ground beef, 2 eggs, salt and pepper to taste, and ¼ cup sharp grated cheese. Shape into small balls, allowing about 3 tablespoons for each. Haley of Southie Heads Stage Acts at RKO Boston

By PEGGY DOYLE

It's the RKO-Boston this week, boys and girls, for the jackpot in entertainment. South Boston's pride-making Jack Haley, a funny fellow not unknown to Broadway, Hollywood and coast-to-coast radio audiences, heads a hit parade of stage acts.

Haley, who "doesn't have to do this . . . I sing at Artie Shaw's weddings," spins a mad and merry monologue that has the sparkling spontaneity of the impromptu, emcees for the other acts, clowns and duets with Constance Moore, one of the loveliest singing stars of stage and screen.

He gabs the gamut from nursery rhymes to long skirts. He gives Miss Muffet quite a lift from her tuffet on the Cole Porter band-wagon. The latter, a style innovation which seems to have fomented a quill-and-ink civil war, doesn't bother Southie's comically garrulous native son who "has a memory even longer." Perhaps for those long-agone wind-blown leg-shows at Tremont and Boylston.

Miss Moore is a veritable materialization of a dream walking as she emerges from the wings her alabaster shoulders beautifully bare above a starpless, bouffant, sequinned black tulle gown. In a warm, rich, ear-caressing voice, the fragile, blonde beauty sang "Almost Like Being in Love" (from "Brigadoon"), "Kokomo, Indiana," a medley of "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me," "It Had to Be You," "Alabamy-bound," "Speak to Me of Love" and "I've Got a Right to Sing the Blues."

For nonsense, she and Haley clowned a deux "I'm Nobody's Baby," and these two, as Broadwise as they are screen-sure, are nobody's slouches when it comes to clowning in the grandly comic manner.

Sensational is the precise word for Elsa and Waldo, an unknown comedy dance team of Spanish-South American extraction who last week quietly switched from a Greenwich Village nitery to stop the show at New York's State Theater and to get a contract to star in the pending "Ziegfeld Follies" revue.

The San Carlo Opera Company goes double-feature at the Opera House with "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci." Willa Stewart, Martha Larrimore, Dorothy Hess, Mario Palermo and Stefan Ballarini are to be heard in the first half of the bill. In "Pagliacci" Alfonso Pravadelli, Mina Cravi and Grant Garnell are the leading singers. Nicholas Rescigno is again conducting.

'DUET' CLOSES TOMORROW

Two performances . . . tomorrow afternoon and evening . . . will mark the closing of the week's run of "Duet for Two Hands" at the Wilbur. An outstanding hit in London, "Duet" is notable for the superb performances of Francis L. Sullivan and Joyce Redman rather than for its playwrighting.

Dorothy Lamour Vamps Wheat Belt Combine Crews

Wheat may be making the nation's banner lines but in "Wild Harvest," the Paramount and Fenway Theaters' film attraction hungry Europe's vitally needed food staple takes second place to Dorothy Lamour's sultry vamposturings.

A good idea went astray in this Paramount release, and a story (Houston Branch's "The Big Haircut") with epic potentialities has become a Lamour-needled feud in the Mid-West wheat belt.

Branch lived with the combine crews who harvest wheat from Texas to Canada to get first-hand material for his story, which John Monks, Jr., adapted to the screen. In the transition, the drama-packed story of wheat-cutting by combine crews of itinerant harvesters through America's vast wheat belt becomes mere background for Miss Lamour's dotty, flirty Fay Rankin who wants out from her cantankerous uncle's Kansan farm.

She wants Alan Ladd, boss of a fleet of six giant wheat harvesting combines, but she settles for Robert Preston, the combine crew's lumbering, girl-crazy mechanic, "to be near the man she loves."

Woman Recluse Finally Evicted

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Olga Bromley, with her heaps of papers and boxes and a lifetime collection of household articles, was out a three-room apartment today, loser in a three weeks' eviction battle.

Eight city trucks yesterday carted the goods away from the apartment she occupied for 35 years.

Antique collectors at the eviction were turned down after offering $25 for a music box and $100 for three oil lamps.

Leonard Cutway, deputy city marshal, said evicting officers struggled across heaps of articles to reach her room. The litter included trunks, beds, bureaus, tables, a piano, a saber, a child's sled and rocking chairs.

Nazi Executioner Paid With Cigarets, Hanged

LANDSBERG, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Erhard Wolf, Nazi executioner, who received five cigarets for each of the 200 inmates he killed, was hanged today with seven other men of the Flossenberg concentration camp's staff.

"Smart Set Functions" by Betty Alden, daily in the Boston Evening American.

Adams Gave Hub Its High Position In Major Sports

By JACK CONWAY

CHARLES F. ADAMS of Framingham, who died following a long illness, did more to build interest in major sports promotions in Boston than any other individual. He brought professional hockey to this city and did not rest content until the Bruins were the world's champions. It was his genius that built Suffolk Downs at a cost of $2,500,000, transforming a dump into a race track.

Adams and Bruce Wetmore, at one time, held controlling interest in the Braves, but they sold their stock in the club for less than $500,000 when Judge Landis ruled that one could not own a race track and also remain in baseball.

It is seldom that the ancestry of a man was subjected to as much fire as was that of Adams. This writer called the matter to the attention of Adams and was given official records which proved that the sports promotional genius was fifteen-sixteenths American and one-sixteenth Indian. It was the Indian blood in Adams that enabled him to wait patiently for months and years, if necessary, to make the correct move. The Indian blood also explained Adams' sharp features.

A grocery store clerk in Springfield after he came to Massachusetts from Vermont; a customers' man in a Boston brokerage office before he organized the First National Stores, and then a promoter of hockey, baseball and horse racing.

If it had not been for Adams and the Bruins, the Boston Garden never would have been built. Tex Rickard, Bill Carey and the group of New York bankers who erected the Garden refused to make the necessary money commitments until Adams signed a five-year contract for the Bruins to play in the new building.

The Bruins were under contract to play in the Arena. Adams realized the Bruins would be sued for breach of contract if they were to go to the Garden. Before signing the Garden contract, Adams made the new organization agree to pay any judgment that might be rendered aginst the Bruins for moving out of the Arena. Later there was the anticipated judgment and it was paid by the Garden.

Liked City Location of Suffolk Downs

ONE NIGHT while hurrying to a hockey game at the Garden, I met Adams.

"I am going in for racing," he said with a sly grin. "I am going to build a mile track in East Boston. Mark Lillienthal is the architect. I have told him to follow most of the plans he used at Narragansett Park only to make the track 25 per cent larger as we have more people in this area. Suffolk Downs will be the name of our track and it will cost only ten cents to get there. Low prices in anything always prove attractive to the public."

In the early days of Suffolk Downs, the handle frequently fell below $300,000 a day. Adams maintained his faith in racing and in the location of his track.

When war came, Suffolk Downs had no worries over gas restrictions as race-goers could get there by street car.

If there is to be a racing war next year, Suffolk Downs, with its 10 cent car fare, has a distinct advantage over rival tracks.

After the bonds on Suffolk Downs were paid off Adams sold control of the track to the Aldred Investment Trust, headed by Gordon Hanlon, for $1,100,000 only to see the same stock bring $3,600,000 from Judge Pappas' group less than two years later.

Adams was ill before he sold his Suffolk Downs stock, and at one time was a patient at the Phillips House. He remained at Suffolk Downs as director of racing when Hanlon took over.

At one time Adams suggested that Suffolk Downs be operated by the State by a board of trustees. He was willing to buy $100,000 of the proposed bonds.

"The Federal government gets most of the money out of racing," said Adams, "and the only way to stop this is to have the State take over the ownership of the track."

Gambled Big

ADAMS GAMBLED in a big way on his sports promotions. He started the Bruins with a handful of players. A Western Hockey League in Canada then got into difficulties, and Adams bought all of its players for $250,000. He kept what players he needed for the Bruins and got enough money for the balance of the players to give him his $250,000 back.

While Adams invested much money in racing and moderate sums in baseball, hockey was his first love.

A lonesome man who had walked alone a great deal through life, this writer found Adams sitting alone in a stadium seat at the Bruins' opener three years ago. The proceeds of the game were to go to the Disabled Veterans Fund. There was a vacant seat next to Adams which this writer took. Adams' comments on the game were better than those of any expert. He knew hockey as few did.

I always felt that the greatest thrill Adams ever got out of sport was when he handed Alan Forbes, representing a group of charities, a check of $635,000 for three weeks of charity racing at Suffolk Downs. It was during the war. Weston was an officer in the Navy, and, like millions of other fathers, Adams was eager to go all out for the war effort.

Sinatra

FRANK SINATRA will be at the Boston Garden next Sunday for the Christopher Columbus Youth Centre jamboree. He will head an all-star show which will also feature Eleanor Powell and Jack Haley.

World Series' Play 'Bush'

By HUCK FINNEGAN

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—What records could be expected to fall today as Yankees behind Floyd Bevens and Dodgers behind Harry Taylor clashed in the fourth game of the World Series? Off the first games whatever records might be set won't include one for good, clean baseball.

Game No. 1 (Yanks 5, Dodgers 3) set a new attendance record. Game No. 2 (Yanks 10, Dodgers 3) tied the record for triples (Stirnweiss, Lindell, Johnson). Game No. 3 (Dodgers 9, Yanks 8) set an endurance record: It took three hours, five minutes to play the game. In addition, Brooklyn had its biggest inning (6-run second) in World Series, scored its most W. S. runs (9); saw a pinch-hitter (Berra) hit a home run for the first time in W. S. history. Records, records, records, but no baseball.

One record the contestants are setting that never will get into the books is that of playing the bushiest of bush league baseball. The Detroit-Chicago series of '45 was supposed to be the most poorly played in history, but how could it compare in tawdriness to this?

Yanks are using two catchers (Berra, Lollar) who can't throw with an all-scholastic. Berra did throw out Reese in the second game, but five other Dodger steals have been negotiated with ease. Berra tutrns circles under fly balls and lets them drop in the infield. Reiser gets enmeshed with sun and haze and helps Yanks tie triples record. Wild pitches and passed balls advance runners in lieu of sacrifice bunts. Dodgers use 10 pitchers in three games. Raggedy-Ann, raggedy-Ann, raggedy-Ann.

Honestly, if you ever saw such baseball played at Dorchester Town Field or Barre's Corner you'd demand your dime back. Even Bucky Harris admitted the 9-8 game was the "daffiest yet," the horrible example of all World Series clashes.

Dodgers chase Bo-Bo Newsom in the six-run second, but such is the Dodgers' pitching that the Yanks could have won if they had played even class B ball.

For example: Lindell fell down chasing Edwards' double in left center. DiMaggio retrieved it and cut loose the ball for home in an effort to catch Hermanski who had started from first base. Instead of backing up the play at the plate as he should have done, Newsom stood in the middle of the diamond, cut off DiMag's throw and didn't bother relaying it to the plate though there seemed plenty of time to get Hermanski.

Drews was pitching in the third inning. He had become a daddy in the morning so perhaps was upset. He hit the first batsman, Hermanski, and wild pitched him to second. Now Edwards hit back to Drews who had Hermanski trapped between second and third. What did he do? Just looked at Hermanski and threw to first. Hermanski scored on Jorgensen's single, so twice he crossed the plate when he should have been out at least once, possibly twice.

"That'll mean the ball game, sure as shootin'," said Yankee rooter Jimmy Bagley, and he was 100 per cent correct. The Dodgers haven't the pitching to keep the Yank bats mute, and so it was no surprise that they chased southpaw Joe Hatten who didn't lick a first division club all year until the Dodgers had clinched the pennant.

Hatten was combed for two runs in the third, and one more hit would have chased him then. He gave up two more runs in the fourth and finally went out after Joe DiMag's two-run homer in the fifth.

But Yanks had sent old Spud Chandler to the mound in the fourth and Spud handed the Dodgers two runs when everybody in the park knew Spud didn't have it. He walked three men, and he was 3-2 on those that did hit him.

Yet the Yanks might have overcome all this and gone on to win had not Billy Johnson been given the hit sign with a 3-1 count on him, bases loaded and scared-stiff Branca on the hill.

Branca had relieved Hatten in the fifth. Pinch hitter Bobby Brown opened the sixth with a double that was only inches from being a homer. Henrich scored him with a double that Stanky deflected toward the foul line. With two out, DiMag was passed purposely, and Branca got so jittery he walked McQuinn on four pitches.

Johnson worked the count to 3-1. "He'll take it," said Rogers Hornsby. Reasons: Branca didn't

Harvard On Spot

By BILL GRIMES

Although they are veterans of the coaching racket, Dick Harlow and "Buff" Donelli will be "counting sheep," tonight—the eve of the Harvard-Boston University game.

Harlow is on the "spot" because the Crimson is an odds-on favorite. Moreover, he is well aware that Donelli knows his football. He will not admit to seeing eye to eye with the experts who claim that Harvard has an outstanding varsity squad.

Donelli is worried over the effect the Harvard Stadium will have on his Terriers. Many veteran college elevens have tightened up in the stadium. Then, too, there will be one freshman and seven sophomores in B. U.'s starting lineup.

Coach Harlow has selected nine starters for tomorrow's classic. He will open with Wally Flynn and "Red" Hill on the flanks, Howie Houstan and Chet Pierce at tackle, Bob Drennan and either Jim Fienberg or Howie Foster at guard, Don Stone at center and

B. U. GRID RALLY

A capacity crowd of students, alumni, coaches, football players and professional entertainers are expected to throng the Boston Arena tonight when the Boston University Terriers stage the greatest pre-game rally in the school's history.

Eleanor Powell, famous Hollywood screen star, and Harold Russell, handless war vet, will perform at the "Beat-Harvard" affair.

a backfield comprised of Jim Kanery, at quarter, Charlie Roche or Hal Moffie at left half, "Chip" Gannon at right half and Capt. Vinc Moravec at fullback.

The Terriers will start off with Wally Anderson and George Boston, at the ends, Irving Heller and George Ramacroti, tackles, Bill Griseti and Ed Haracz flanking center Art Boyle, with John Toner at quarter, Capt. Don Giles and Bob Hatch at the halfback posts and Gene Mancino at full.

Coach Donelli will field a fine first string starting backfield, in Capt. Don Giles, Bob Harris, Gene Mancino and John Toner. Giles is the only senior on the B. U. squad and is recognized as one of the best all around backs in this section. He can do about everything a halfback is supposed to do and do them well. Hatch is a junior and second only to his leader.

Jack Toner, who is a sophomore, is a most promising prospect. He weighs better than 190 and despite his lack of experience knows more football than the average second year players, while Gene Mancino is a reliable fullback.

According to the authorities, the Harvard-B. U. game will attract approximately 45,000 to the Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Taylor Has Stuff to Win Big Games

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—Rookie Harry Taylor has the stiffest backbone of any pitcher on the Brooklyn club. Players acknowledge it. He won the big ones early in the season but came down with a sore arm on Aug. 18 and has pitched only three innings since. "If his arm aches while he's warming up I'll substitute Hal Gregg," said Shotton. "My arm feels fine," said Taylor. "Don't worry about me" . . . Taylor had a 10-5 record before his arm injury . . . Bevens won 16 in '46, had a 7-13 record this season. But he pitched a smart game two weeks ago, and seems ready.

Berra's homer was the Yanks 72d. in World Series competition, and the entire National League total for 44 world series is only 70. Yanks still can hit even if they're not the McCarthy Yanks . . . Jackie Robinson: "Johnny Schmitz of the Cubs has been a better southpaw against us than Joe Page" Bucky Harris says Page is the best relief man he's ever seen, and he's seen Firpo Marberry, Wilcy Moore and Johnny Murphy. Maybe Bucky's trying to boost Page's morale which was at a low ebb in '46 . . . Hugh Casey: "I always pitched DiMaggio low and inside. This time I curved him on the outside corner. I fooled him. He tried to check his swing, but the ball hit his bat . . . I had a sore arm for the past two weeks. I was on the rubbing table every day trying to find the remedy. I took a shot of penicillin for something else, and what do you know, Joe? The arm illness is cured. Never had better stuff in my life than I had in New York. We'll lick these bums yet."

Babe Ruth left the park in the fourth, no doubt disgusted with baseball as it is played today . . . DiMaggio's homer went into the second deck in left center field, far, far above the 351-foot sign . . . Left-handed batting George McQuinn was helpless against Hatten's southpaw sidearm stuff. In the third he ducked a pitch at his head, was called out on strikes while sitting on the ground. "Ball ticked his bat as he was falling," ruled Ump. Eddie Rommel. Since it was the third strike and Edwards held the foul tip, McQuinn was out . . . Pete Reiser jammed his left ankle sliding into second base in the first inning, but X-rays showed no fracture. "Can't play for a week," ruled Shotton. Furillo took over in center field, doubled off the right-handed Newsom, singled of the left-handed Page. He's supposed to be weak against right-handed pitchers . . . Casey pitched only 2 2-3 innings but the scorers said he was the only Dodger who had anything on the ball and gave him the duke.

Lindell: "Stanky didn't tag me in the eighth. I say he didn't tag me. The ump. knew it but umps just won't change their decisions. It meant the ball game. Something should be done about it" . . . Branca had two strikes and no balls on Brown when the latter doubled. If he were pitching for Mel Ott he'd have been fined $300 . . . Robinson made two hits and chased DiMadge to the fence for his long drive in the seventh. DiMadge timed the catch perfectly. He's still the master outfielder . . . Durocher and Laraine Day attracted thousands of spectators outside the park, and the cab drivers fell all over the Lip, saying: "We wouldn't have lost a game if you were managing." The cab drivers tell everybody but Shotton how to run the Dodgers.

IRISH LEADER AILING

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 3 (AP)—Notre Dame's Irish arrived in Pittsburgh today to open their football season tomorrow against the Pitt Panthers.

20,000 to See Fordham Play Georgetown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—A crowd of around 20,000—one of the largest ever to see a college football game here—is expected tonight to watch Georgetown play Fordham at Griffith Stadium.

Georgetown is a one touchdown favorite, largely because it made a fine showing before going down, 0-6, to Wake Forest last week. This will be Fordham's first game of the season.

Yankees, Dodgers Guilty of Worst 'Bush' Playing in World Series History

seem able to threw two successive strikes, and a Johnson walk would have forced Herrich home, making the score 9-8. If Branca did, by chance, get two balls over the plate, all three runners would have been flying with Johnson swinging at the 3-2 pitch.

Hornsby nearly fainted when Johnson hoisted the 3-1 pitch to Stanky for the third out, leaving three runners stranded. Dodgers were on the ropes at the time, and so the bell saved them.

They had two other scares. Berra's pinch home run off Branca in the seventh chased the latter and brought Casey on the scene. He's never been able to lick the Yanks, and when Henrich walked to open the eighth, and Lindell singled, up came DiMadge with two on and nobody out.

This definitely was the spot. A hit, and there would be no need of a fourth game, Dodgers were gulping but in an attempt to check a swing, DiMag grounded to second, Stanky made a neat DP, and when McQuinn grounded out their big chance was gone.

They deserved to lose the game because they frittered away so many opportunities. But so poor is Brooklyn's hitching that the Yanks almost pulled this out of the bag despite their shortcomings. That's the key to the series.

As one Yank said: "The Dodgers play bush ball. We shouldn't associate with such company."

Leahy Likes Harvard, HC, Dartmouth

By FRANK LEAHY

Head Coach, Notre Dame University

The football season reaches an early crescendo tonight and tomorrow afternoon with practically every college team in the country seeing action, many playing their inaugural contests.

For us at Notre Dame, the 59th gridiron campaign of the Fighting Irish will get under-way against the Pittsburgh Panthers at Pittsburgh. I prefer to make no prediction on this game, merely hoping for the best.

Two important clashes take place in the Big Nine, another in Texas and a fourth out on the Pacific coast. And these are just four games typical of the contests taking place elsewhere throughout the land.

North Carolina, under the able direction of Carl Snavely, visits the home grounds of the University of Texas. The latter seems to have successfully installed the "T" with Blair Cherry in his first year at the helm. They showed a powerful offense last Saturday in defeating Oregon 38-7 and it is known that Bobby Layne is one of the country's great backs.

However, after its uphill triumph over a good Georgia team last week I believe I'll go along with North Carolina. The Tar Heels are destined for a spectacular season.

Rice Institute lost a close one to Louisiana State last Saturday and this week the Owls journey to Los Angeles for an encounter with the Trojans of Southern California. Each team is good, potentially great, and each team is well-coached. Possibly the long trip will be a detriment to the Owls but certainly these young men from Texas should not be affected by the California heat. Forced to make a prediction, I'll say one point in favor of Rice.

In the outstanding game in the Big Nine, the Iowa Hawkeyes and Illinois meet at Iowa City. Defeated 22-7 by U.C.L.A. last Friday night in Los Angeles, the Iowans now face the other half of last New Year's Day Rose Bowl twosome. Against the Uclans, Eddie Anderson's boys obtained an early advantage and then faded. In their home territory, I believe that if they should get out in front the Hawkeyes may have the tenacity to hang on.

Another close one in the Western Conference will be Wisconsin and Indiana at Bloomington, Indiana. It will be a homecoming day for the Hoosiers. However, as a result of the offensive power shown by Harry Stuhldreher's Wisconsin team in gaining a 32-14 win over Purdue last Saturday I have an idea the Badgers may spoil the homecoming activities.

My week-end selections:

Georgia Tech over Tulane.
Alabama over Vanderbilt.
U.C.L.A. over Northwestern.
Iowa over Illinois.
Michigan over Stanford.
Detroit over Wayne.
Minnesota over Nebraska.
Indiana over Wisconsin.
Rice over Southern California.
Ohio State over Purdue.
Florida over North Texas.
Miami over Villanova.
Bradley over Wichita.
Utah over Hawaii.
Navy over Columbia.
Cornell over Yale.
Penn over Lafayette.
Maine over Northeastern.
Dochester over Union.
Georgetown over Fordham.
North Carolina over Texas.
Harvard over Boston University.
Dartmouth over Syracuse.
Duke over Tennessee.
California over St. Mary's.
Colgate over King's Point.
Holy Cross over Temple.
Kansas over Iowa State.
Army over Colorado.
Santa Clara over Fresno State.
Marquette over St. Louis.
Mississippi State over Michigan State.

SINKWICH SIGNS?

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—"Fireball" Frankie Sinkwich, one-time University of Georgia football great, has signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts of the All-America Football Conference, an authoritative source disclosed early today.

He is expected to be in uniform for the Colts' game with the San Francisco 49'ers here Sunday.

The acquisition of Sinkwich by the Baltimore club came just a week after he had been placed on the retired list at his own request. At that time Sinkwich said he was leaving because of a bad knee.

Two 5-Round Specials On Amateur Fight Card

Another experimental five-round match between light-heavyweights Howard Kane, Arlington, and Larry Bakiskini, North End, has been arranged for the amateur boxing program to be held in Mechanics Building next Wednesday night by the South End A. A. —the first in the series of weekly fight programs.

Previously, Adrian Bosh, Attleboro middleweight, and Dick Galvin, Jamaica Plain, had been lined up for a special.

YANKS K. O. TAYLOR IN 1ST INNING

By HUCK FINNEGAN

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 3 — Brooklyn's Dodgers, hard up for pitchers, gambled on sore-armed Harry Taylor today in the fourth game of the World Series. His versus was Bill Bevens.

Taylor had pitched only three innings since his arm first bothered him on Aug. 16. As if that were not enough, Stirnweiss and Henrich greeted him with singles, and when Reese muffed Robinson's throw on Berra's grounder the bases were loaded with nobody out and Joe DiMaggio at bat.

Di Maggio walked on four straight pitches, forcing home Stirnweiss with a run. Hal Gregg was warming up hurriedly in the bullpen. After DiMaggio's walk, Clyde Sukeforth, But Shotten's man Friday, sent Taylor to the showers and call in Hal Gregg.

Gregg was no mystery to the Yanks in the second game, and it showed the Dodgers lack of depth in pitching when he was called in so early in the game.

The day was sunny and bright, warm in comparison with the chilly weather thta attended the first three games. The usual capacity crowd of 34,000 was on hand, and they cheered lustily when Bill Johnson, after McQuinn's pop up, rounded into a double play.

The Dodgers shook up their batting order for the game, lifting Reese to second place and putting hard-hitting Robinson in third place.

Pete Reiser May Be Lost to Brooklyn

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 3 (AP) — Real baseball weather and new-born hope arrived simultaneously in Brooklyn today as the Dodgers raillied behind sore-armed Harry Taylor, trying to square the World Series with the New York Yankees at two games apiece.

Taylor won 14 and lost 5 from the time Shotton put him on the regular starting list in late May until he strained a ligament in his right elbow, breaking off a curve to Whitey Kurowski against the St. Louis Cardinals, Aug. 18. Since that date he has worked only four relief innings. There is no true line on his condition although he thinks he can go all the way.

Bevens, in tiptop physical condition, will be pitching for his "life" with the Yankees, who have been disappointed at his 7-13 season record. Counted on as a mainstay of the staff last spring after 16 wins in 1946, Big Bev lost almost twice as many as he won.

A three-hit shutout of Philadelphia, 6-0, on Sept. 21 followed by a neat six-inning relief job Sept. 27 against the same A's earned Bev a shot in the big series.

A warm sun beamed down on Flatbush, promising to send the themometer into the 70's during the afternoon, a welcome change after the chilly breezes during the first three games.

The house may top yesterday's 33,098 because all 2500 bleacher seats, located upstairs in the covered stands in centerfield, had been sold before the Dodgers took the field to hit. Yesterday the faithful arrived slowly and there were gaps even among the reserved seats which had been oversubscribed weeks ago.

Reporters who arrived early found Pete Reiser, injured Dodger outfielder, soaking his sprained right ankle in a whirlpool tub. He was injured trying to steal second base in the first inning.

Reiser indicated that he would not play today and perhaps not for the rest of the series. Carl Furillo will go into centerfield in the fourth game. Although an injury to Reiser normally figures to darken Brooklyn hopes, Furillo's .750 batting average as a parttime World Series worker overbalances the loss. Two singles, a double and two walks put him on base five straight times before the Yanks' Joe Page retired him in the eighth inning of yesterday's game.

Bill Boylan, a retired semi-pro hurler who now bends his curve over the mahogany as bar tender in the Dodgers' press rooni, served them up to the Brooks in batting practice.

Play-by-Play of 4th Series Game

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn—Following is a play-by-play description of the fourth World Series game between the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, played here at Ebbets Field this afternoon:

FIRST INNING

YANKEES—Stirnweiss hit the first pitch to left field for a single. Henrich singled to center, Stirnweiss stopping at second. Berra grounded to Robinson, who threw to Reese. Peewee dropped the ball when Henrich slid hard into second base. Reese was given an error and Robinson an assist, filling the bases. Di Maggio walked on four straight balls, forcing in Stirnweiss across the plate for the Yankees' first run. Taylor was yanked and Hal Gregg replaced him on the mound for the Dodgers. McQuinn popped to Reese. Johnson hit into a fast double play, Reese to Stanky to Robinson. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR, TWO LEFT.

DODGERS—Stankey walked, Stirnweiss made a great gloved-hand stop and threw out Reese, Stankey going to second. Johnson threw out Robinson, Hermanski fouled to Johnson. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, TWO LEFT.

SECOND INNING

YANKEES—Reese threw out Lindell. Rizzuto singled to left. Rizzuto stole second. Bevens flied to Furillo in deep center. Stirnweiss struck out. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

DODGERS — Edwards struck out. Rizzuto threw out Furillo. Jorgensen walked. Gregg struck out. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

World Series Sidelights

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3 (AP) — Somehow, Ebbets Field seems a more appropriate setting than Yankee Stadium for this World Series. Old Deacon Rickey put his foot down when they suggested all seven games ought to be played in the more comfortable Stadium. And now that the Dodgers and the Yanks have moved over to Flatbush, most everyone agrees he was right.

"Never a dull day at Ebbets Field" is an old saying along the banks of the Gowanus, and yesterday's three hour and five minute Donnybrook was confirmation. For in addition to setting a record for length, the game saw eight pitchers, 26 base hits, 17 runs, 12 bases on balls, two wild pitches, one hit batsman, one passed ball —which must be some sort of a record for World Series variety.

They gave the game back to the people when they brought it to Flatbush. Instead of the plush and the chrome of the Stadium Club, the little Ebbetts Field bandbox modestly offers just hot dogs and peanuts. The crowds which at the Stadium seemed to be neutral, if not indifferent, here are whooping and boisterous, intensely partisan. The great majority of the seats normally occupied by Dodgerites are held by out-of-towners, of course, but there are still enough of the Faithful on hand to cheer on their beloved Bums.

The Stadium had Metropolitan Opera Soprano Helen Jepson and Guy Lombardo's Band, but Ebbetts Field inaugurated Brooklyn's end of the "Serious" with its own "Verce," Organist-Vocalist Gladys Gooding, who has sung the National Anthem for all Dodger home games this year. The 14th Regiment Band accompanied her, and the Dodger "Sym-Phony" serenaded the crowd during the game.

In contrast to his glum attitude following the two defeats in the Bronx, Burt Shotton greeted reporters at the clubhouse door after Thursday's game with an affable "Come in!" There was no waiting in the alley. "I'm glad to see everyone today," beamed the Dodger manager. "Yesterday I didn't want to see anyone."

Bums in Brass—Ragged, but smiling, the Dodgers' Sym-Phony band goes to town in front of the Brooklyn dugout at Ebbets Field to cheer up the losers of the first two games. Could be that their music gave the "Bums" a lift, for they broke out with a brace of hits to cop the third game. The Dodger (left) is Catcher Bob Bragan. AP Wirephoto
